GREECE & TURKEY. The extracts which will be found below from Greece and Turkey are important. The Redschid Pach has been defeated and obliged to raise the siege of Missolonghi, notwithstanding the orders of the Grand Seignor, of "Missolonghi, or thy head." Great alarm exists at Constantinople, and the Porte has rejected all intervention of foreign powers, and has determined to try a sixth campaign. Extract of a private letter of Sept. 30, from Zante. Redschid Pacha, not being discouraged by the fruitless attempts which he made upon Missolonghi, and etimulated by the orders of the Grand Seignor, who said "Missolought, or they head," commenced a terrible attack upon that place about eight days ago. A breach was opened in the fortress, troops rushed in and made themselves masters of two bastions, when the Greeks threw aside their muskets, and falling sword in hand upon the assailants, routed and put them to flight. The Pacha, after this defeat, caused a fortification to be raised in earth, and upon it he established five pie ces of cannon of heavy calibre, with which he battered the interior of the fort. The christians being unable to silence their fire, conceived the project of burying the Turks in their satteries. They contrived a mine, and the works were so skilfully conducted that not one of the barbarians escaped the explosion. This disaster determined Redschid Pacha to retreat to Hypochori, upon the Evenus. Ibrahim Pacha, after having left a garrison at Tripoliza, marched upon Mistra, where he burnt two houses and some churches. Proceeding afterwards upon Bardonica, he was stopped by the Greeks, who were entrenched in some towers with a draw bridge. He was making preparations for a siege, when the Hellenist army, under Calocatroni and other captains, came up and attacked him. The action was brisk, at the Pacha being unable to make either his caval ry or his troops of the line maneuvre in the grags of the woody mountains, was empelled to retreat, a ter having lost 12000 men. He retir. ed into a country adjacent to Monambasia; Pente Alonia, where he is closely pressed by the Greeks. M. Regnault de St. dean d'Angely (son of of the Minister of State under the Emperor) continues at Napoli the organization of a corps of ravalry: Colonel Fabvier is training the troops a l'Europene; artillery officers teach the Greek cannon to manœuvre; and every thing is in preparation for a sixth campaign.

Extract of a private letter of the 1st inst. from Vienna. "We have letters from Constantinople to October 10. "The following is a substance of their contents!

Towards the end of September the Divan held several assemblies. which were remarkably stormy.

Some of the members who did not coincide in opinion with the majority, were upbraided by their colleagues as partisans of the Greeks. In fine, it was decided that the Porte, formerly rejecting all intervention of foreign flowers, would use the utmost effects to enter upon a sixth campaign in order to bring the Greek rebels into subjection. Tartars, were, in consequence, dispatched to all the Turkish commanders in the Peloponessus, as well as to Ibrahim Pacha, to make in Bentamber, 1825.

their operations with the greatest coorgy, notwithstanding the season was so far advanced. It was even in contemplation to try a winter campaign; a thing unexampled in the annals of the Ottoman empire; but the execution of such a project seems impossible, as none of the firmans of the Grand Seignor would be able to keep the soldiers under their colours, when once the winter had commenced. As to the Captain Pachs, after having spent some time at Alexandria, he has returned with his squadron to Boudram, where he is waiting for the sailing of the new Egyptian expedition. This officer is not without approhension, as the Greeks are hovering about him; and it is believed that he will take the first opportunity of making the best of his way to the Dardanelles to pass the winter quietly."

Extract of a private letter of the 10th ultimo, from Zante; - The fifth campaign of the Turks against the Greeks may be considered as terminated, and Ibrahim Pacha has not been fortunate enough to regain the point for which he set out in April last. When the snow begins to fall in the mountains of Arcadia, his situation will be most deplorable, as he is short of provisions, and all commueications have been cut off .- The Austrian engineers attached to the army of Redschid Pacha are roughly treated by his forces, who attribute to them the delay in the surrender of Missolon-) ghi. The Hellenist government having learned that the Viceroy of Egypt proposed to dispatch a corvette with specie to pay his/son's troops, sent out a division. to meet The Greeks finding they could not capture this vessel, determined to sink it, which they effected in the beginning of October, offthe Isle of Crete."
